Dear Readers,

Warm greetings and a Very Happy New Year to all. Hope we all enter the New Year in good health. Thank you for accepting me to serve another two years in the post of Editor-in-Chief, IJESR. I am sure we all will work together to make our Journal the best one and we all will be looking forward to reading it to enhance our knowledge. We release two issues annually, one in June and one in December month. I request all to contribute articles to our future issues also.

I hope by sharing the articles on management issues in difficult scenarios helps others in having more precise clinical acumen and better patient management. We become wiser through other people's experiences. Hence, writing about such clinical issues helps the readers in many ways. Management strategies keep changing with time, and newer devices, medicines, and surgical techniques keep evolving. Hence, we need to be updated with all recent advancements.

I hope we keep enjoying learning and sharing knowledge.

Stay blessed and stay healthy!

Regards
